CHRISTMAS GIVING SERIOUS PROBLEM

Pastor Regards Question a Popular Musician Will Be Worthy Theme for His Laid to Final Rest Tomorrow Sunday Sermon.

Special to The Tribune.
OGDEN, Dec. 21.—Who is to be the judge in the matter of the so-called useless Christmas giving? Are not toys of real use to the woman with an artistic nature and gifts of greater value than all? These were some of the questions propounded by the Rev. James Edward Carver, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in a sermon today on the theme of Christmas giving. His remarks, in part, follow:

Not the value of the gift, but the spirit of the giver is what gives it value. Not the one who receives the gift, but the one who bestows it. It is truly blessed. These are sentiments at various points led as if by a thread. Pretty things, but what is still more at variance is the fact that that person who can bestow a gift upon the soul, heart and mind rather than the one who gives to the body, is the best giver. We hear of a "National Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving," but who is to decide what is useless? Toys are of real use to the child. The day of play and toys is short at best and will pass as well as a body. Pretty trinkets and knick-knacks are of use, great use indeed, when they minister to the desire for pretty things. May a poor woman needs them as deeply as she does food or clothing, for she has an artistic nature to be ministered to as well as a body. Spiritual gifts are the most needed, for they are the rarest of all, and blessed is that one who can give to the yearning of the soul as well as a body. Indeed, we greatly err when we strive to limit our gifts to the practical things, for men and women have other needs quite as essential as food and clothes, if they are to be more than animals.

Christmas giving to be in the spirit of the Christ, must first be giving that is given in the deepest good will and joyously bestowed. It must be giving to a degree that means sacrifice. Not that that costs until we feel it. But that giving not alone to the body, for Christ ever speaks and gives to a deeper life than the mere animal in us. A gift to be in His spirit must have in it elements that will enrich soul, mind and heart as well as body. Indeed, to really give a Christmas gift is no easy or indifferent matter. How much more Christmas giving then is Christmas giving at all?

JAPANESE HOLD FESTIVAL.

Orientalists Give Theatrical Production on Elaborate and Large Stage.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—Attended by more than 500 Japanese from Ogden and surrounding territory, the annual festival of the Japanese subjects was opened at the Armory building on Twenty-fourth street tonight. It will continue for three days and three nights. The festival year takes the form of a theatrical production with twenty-five Japanese as members of the company.

The stage is without question the biggest thing about the production. Nearly two-thirds of the main floor of the Armory has been transformed into a stage, leaving a comparatively small space for the audience. It is a work of Japanese art, however, the whole being a mass of oriental draperies and streamers, liberally festooned with posters and inscriptions. The decorations are largely silk.

The first production was given tonight and there will be succeeding shows on Monday and Tuesday nights. According to the promoters, no admission fee is charged and the expenses are covered by a fund contributed by local Japanese merchants.

Delay Funeral Arrangements.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—Believing that it will be possible to locate relatives of a woman, no funeral arrangements have been made for Maggie Messenger, who lived alone in this city for the past several years and died last week. Her friends or relatives in her little hut home in the business district last Friday. Mrs. Nelson has informed that the woman, a widow, had a son residing in Garfield, Utah.

Pioneer Woman Dead.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—Mrs. Magdalen Flewelling, aged 82 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George W. Pratt, 2446 Porter avenue, early this morning, following a long illness due to the infirmities of old age. She was born in Sussex, New Brunswick, on May 9, 1831. In addition to the daughter here, she is survived by one son, Charles Flewelling, residing in California. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

MARY WILL ATTEND DOUGLASS FUNERAL

Pastor Regards Question a Popular Musician Will Be Worthy Theme for His Laid to Final Rest Tomorrow Sunday Sermon.

Special to The Tribune.
OGDEN, Dec. 21.—Tributes of respect will be paid by his many friends, both in Ogden and Salt Lake, to the memory of George Douglass, victim of the accident at Cragun Brothers' produce plant yesterday afternoon, when funeral services are conducted in the Ogden tabernacle at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The services will be in charge of Bishop E. A. Olsen of the Fourth ward.

As an indication of the esteem in which he was held by his associates in musical circles of the city, the music for the services will be furnished by the Ogden tabernacle choir. For the past several years Mr. Douglass had been a member of the choir, occupying the position of first solo tenor. None of the many friends in Ogden has been more saddened by the death of Mr. Douglass than Professor Joseph Ballantyne, director of the local choir.

WEEBER CLUB HOSPITABLE.

Two House Warnings Are to Be Given by Popular Organization.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—Owing to the fact that it would be next to impossible for the members of the Weeber club to entertain the Ogden people and visitors from the commercial organizations of Utah cities on the same night, the officers of the club are planning another "house warming" reception in addition to that on next Saturday night, December 27. The preliminary arrangements have been made with Will G. Farrell, secretary of the Salt Lake Commercial club, who has assured the local officers that the big delegation from his city will be pleased to accept the invitation.

On next Saturday night the officers of the club have invited all Weeber club members to attend the reception and bring a friend. It will be the formal inspection night for the beautiful new quarters in the Colonel Hudson building. While the date of the other function for out-of-town visitors has not been definitely determined, it is planned to give the affair about January 15.

SAVES CASH IN JAIL.

Intoxicated Man With Plenty of Money Spends Night in Cell.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—How Thomas Allen, with $285 in his possession, spent last night in the city jail without being released by the police is a question which the police are trying to solve today. The task would have been made easier for Allen, who was much intoxicated when arrested yesterday afternoon. The discovery of the cash in Allen's possession was not made by the officers until the man was locked up again on the same old charge this afternoon following his release earlier in the day. About $1 in small change was found in the man's pockets when he was searched following his first arrest yesterday. The searching officer overlooked a pair of trousers which Allen wore under his overalls and there was found the cash.

JOHN J. O'NEIL DEAD.

Veteran Railroad Laborer Expires Suddenly in Arms of Officer.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—Death suddenly summoned a veteran railroad worker early this morning when John J. O'Neil, aged 62 years, fell into the arms of a police officer on his way to work. O'Neil had just been released from the city jail, a moment after he had told the patrolman that he was on his way home. He is believed to have resulted from heart failure induced by dropsy.

The railroad watchman met O'Neil at the Twenty-first street crossing of the Oregon Short Line tracks and, as the man seemed somewhat unsteady, Finch feared that he would be run over by a train. O'Neil had just been released from the city jail, a moment after he had told the patrolman that he was on his way home. He is believed to have resulted from heart failure induced by dropsy.

Get the first seventy pictures FREE with the catalogue and Answer Book. Picture 71 costs only the price of the paper. Then clip out today's picture, No. 72, get the balance from The Tribune during the next five days, and solve and submit all seventy-seven. YOU can win first award by using your common sense in selecting the correct titles from the catalogue. Do it.

KILLED BY CAVE-IN.

Ernest Oliver Meets Death in Bingham Mine at Lark.

Special to The Tribune.

LARK, Dec. 21.—Ernest Oliver, 25 years of age, was smothered to death under caving ground in the workings of the Bingham mine here early this morning. Oliver was operating an electric motor drawing a train of ore cars. One car was being pushed in front of the motor. It flew the track and struck the wall, dislodging several hundred pounds of the tunnel, causing the ground to cave from above, with the result that the man was buried alive. The accident occurred about 11:00 feet in the tunnel. Immediately miners were summoned and the work of reaching the unfortunate young man was begun. Two hours elapsed before it was completed, and a second cave-in occurred which resulted in injury to Benjamin Weinstock, one of the miners engaged in the rescue work. He suffered a bad wrench of the muscles of his back and possible internal injuries.

Oliver was survived by a widow and three small children. Funeral services will be held at the chapel at Fort Harrison, Wednesday at 11 o'clock. The body will be taken to the Bingham mine at Lark, where the widow was formerly Miss Bertha Walker of Fort Harrison.

NEW PLAN FAVORED.

Half-day Sessions in Public Schools Are Generally Favored.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—With an absence of the opposition which was even anticipated by the originator of the plan, the project of Superintendent John M. Mills for the half-day sessions in the public schools of the city and other modern ideas for increasing the efficiency of the school system has been received enthusiastically by business men, professional men and representatives of persons in all other walks of life. The plan possesses a magnitude which is at once hard to grasp, but there has been practically no note of opposition. Superintendent Mills feels assured of support once he is given the chance to carry out his plan. The efficiency and economy of the proposed new system.

Already the plan seems destined to place Ogden prominently on the educational map of the United States because of the fact that the system as proposed by Superintendent Mills is being adopted in other cities of the entire country. It is operating in Great Britain, and in two other cities, Gary, Ind., and Des Moines, Iowa. The details of the Ogden plan have been mapped out to especially suit the needs of the city.

The new plan has been greeted with especially enthusiastic approval by the teachers of the city, who are perhaps best qualified to judge of its merits or unfitness. Since its original presentation to the public, Superintendent Mills has received more than 1000 letters and personal messages from educators of Utah and adjoining states commending the plan. In Professor Henry Peterson, principal of the Ogden high school, the local superintendent has found another supporter. Every grade school principal in Ogden has also endorsed the plan. It is expected that within the near future a mass meeting of citizens will be arranged for a further and detailed discussion of the important points of the proposed new system.

MAIL CLERKS BUSY.

Forces at Terminal Station in Ogden Handling Much Matter.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—Some evidence of just how busy Santa Claus will be for the next few days may be gained from the fact that the mail clerks at the terminal mail station on Friday and Saturday handled as many parcel post packages as were received throughout the entire week ending on Sunday, December 14. The total for that week was about 32,000 pieces of parcel post mail. On last Friday 11,100 pieces of parcel post mail passed in and out of the local station and the record for Saturday was 12,000. In spite of this avalanche of mail, which is in addition to the regular letter and newspaper mail "worked" at the station, the present force of clerks is successfully handling the situation. Considerable inconvenience is caused by the disarranged train schedules.

Stevenson Funeral Monday.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—The body of Thomas Stevenson, the Ogden resident who died in Los Angeles, Cal., a few days ago, arrived in Ogden yesterday and was taken to the home of the daughter, Mrs. Thomas Peeney, 2560 Orchard avenue. The funeral will be conducted there by Bishop H. C. Jacobs at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Interment in Ogden City cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Peeney home and may be viewed by the friends from 10 o'clock tomorrow morning until the hour of the services.

Funeral Announced.

OGDEN, Dec. 21.—The funeral of Mrs. Esther A. Terry, who died at the home of her son, Bishop T. T. Terry, yesterday afternoon, will be held at 1 o'clock. Interment in Ogden City cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Bishop Terry's home, 312 Washington avenue, Monday afternoon and evening, and until 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday.

DIG BRANCH OFFICE TO BE OPENED HERE

Coogan Engineering Company Finds Salt Lake Best Town in West.

Announcement has just been made that the Coogan Engineering company of Milwaukee, makers of steam and hot water heating plants, are about to open a branch office in Salt Lake City. The firm has already done considerable work in and around Salt Lake and, as a result, is convinced that conditions warrant the establishment of a branch here. They will have their engineering department and show rooms in the Moxum building.

The firm is one of the oldest of its kind in the west. Unlike most concerns of that character, it does not do plumbing work, but confines itself to the installation of heating plants. It is the company's intention to found branch offices in all the important towns of the intermountain region, with Salt Lake as the central point. In explaining why Salt Lake was chosen, Jesse Coogan, a member of the firm, said:

A complete study and investigation of conditions throughout the country during the past six months, leads us to believe that Salt Lake City is much better financially and industrially than any other city of its size. We are finding our hopes on an increase in size and importance of the city, and the fact that the building business is doing a business center. In fact, we expect it to double in size and importance within the next ten years.

EMBEZZLER BROUGHT FROM SOUTH AMERICA

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—James R. Hackett, who had been pursued for four months on a charge of having embezzled $12,000 from a wholesale hardware dealer of Baltimore, by whom he was employed, arrived here today on the steamer Verdi from Buenos Aires in custody of a detective of the Baltimore police department.

At Bahia, at Rio Janeiro, and again at Montevideo, the ship on which Hackett left New York last August was searched, but the man was not discovered. Subsequently the detectives heard that Hackett had hidden him in a refrigerator each time the search was in progress. He went ashore at Montevideo, where he was arrested.
